Fractals also help mitigate the continuous exposure to technology in our digitized and urbanized settings. As our world moves towards a more digital future, our human need to innately connect with nature indoors will only grow exponentially.

“

Using science based research on fractals has been a pivotal movement for Mohawk Group and our clients. Stress is pervasive in society, and we have found that design using fractals is an essential way to mitigate this and bring wellness and positive impacts into built space for all.”
